Susanne Wherry joins law firm of Cooley & Handy

Susanne M. Wherry has joined the Doylestown law firm of Cooley & Handy. The firm concentrates in personal injury and family law in Bucks, Montgomery and Philadelphia Counties.

Ms. Wherry graduated from the College of Charleston in Charleston, South Carolina. She received her law degree from the Temple University School of Law in Philadelphia. While attending Temple University she received the Barrister's Award for Outstanding Performance in Oral Advocacy.

Prior to joining Cooley & Handy, Ms. Wherry worked for a Philadelphia area civil litigation firm where she successfully argued a precedent-setting case to the Superior Court of Pennsylvania relating to the right of a third-party biological father to challenge an acknowledgement of paternity.

Ms. Wherry also worked for Kessler, Schwarz & Solominay, P.C., one of the largest domestic litigation firms in the Southeast, where she focused on representing individuals in high profile, high net worth and complex income domestic matters. Previous to that, Ms. Wherry worked for the Court of Appeals for the Eleventh Circuit in Atlanta, Georgia as a Staff Attorney.

"Susanne brings a wealth of experience in divorce, child custody, support matters, and appeals to our firm," says Kevin Handy, a principal in the firm. "We are convinced that Susanne's extensive experience will prove to be an invaluable asset as we continue to serve our expanding clientele."

Susanne Wherry is a member of the Pennsylvania and Georgia bars.
